

Environmental Standards Statement

The building to be erected will be a standalone unit used solely for the storage of products/goods and will not be heated in any form, and there will be no welfare facilities within it.

The full details of the building's construction and materials are set out on the submitted plans and photographs of this type of structure used elsewhere are supplied.

The specification of materials are building regulation compliant