The 100W SMD 6000K Black Photocell Floodlight is a powerful and durable LED floodlight, that comes equipped with an integrated photocell sensor. This handy feature ensures the light will switch on when the ambient lighting level drops to a certain level and off again when things brighten up. With a combination of an IP65 rating and an IK07 rating you can be certain this floodlight is suitably sturdy for use in public and outdoor spaces. For extra convenience, this floodlight features driverless technology, a manoeuvrable bracket and a 1m long cable, enabling it to be installed in a variety of locations. Secure Your Property With LED Floodlights This light uses every watt it receives to it its fullest effect, which is why is can produce a very impressive 8200 lumens of light. That results in a very bright fitting with a comparatively low power cost, which leads to loads of perks! This helps keep your property as bright as possible, which will make your property a much less tempting target to would-be criminals- without causing a massive spike in your light bills! That efficiency also ensures that this light runs a lot cooler when compared to other lights, even after they've been left on for a while. This makes them a lot safer to be around, but it also helps them to last for a really long time! This particular floodlight should last for around 30,000 hours! For extra safety, this floodlight doesn't rely on mercury vapours like CFL bulbs. This combines with the aluminium body to ensure that this floodlight can be disposed of safely and in an environmentally sound way. Even More Floodlights Don't want a photocell sensor? The 100W SMD 6000K Black Floodlight is otherwise identical, but without the sensor attached. This might be more practical for your set up. The 300W SMD 6000K Black Photocell Floodlight offers up similar functionality as the featured model, but its three times as powerful, which means it can produce around 24,000 lumens of light!
