The 1:1056 scale of Ordnance Survey mapping was adopted from Ireland in 1846 and was used to survey towns with a population of over 4000, plus county towns of lesser population. In those counties mapped at the six-inch scale in 1841-50, the scale was the largest scale at which London was mapped. The Ordnance Survey and a skeleton survey of the capital, undertaken between 1848 and 1850. The majority of the 1:1056 sheets, as were later replaced by 1:500 surveys, although almost all the remainder were revised at this scale, sometimes more than once before 1995. The type of detail shown on the 1:1056 scale is broadly similar to that on 1:500. The apparent omission of minor details such as sewer access points and street lights may be as much a reflection of the generally earlier date of these plans, as of the specification of the map.

Please note: Due to the partial coverage of Historical Town Plans, it is possible that not all segments within an order will contain mapping. Only the segments that have Town Plan coverage will be generated.

The 1:500 scale Ordnance Survey mapping was introduced in 1895 as a replacement for the 1:250 scale and to complement the 1:250 scale that had been implemented in 1883. By 1893, the 1:500 scale covered most towns over a population of about 4000 at the time of survey, although very few towns were depicted more than once at this scale, and none have been since 1911. The 1:500 scale plans are the most detailed of the Ordnance Survey plans. They show individual buildings, streets, and other features. Also often featured are divisions between tenements, interior ground floor layouts of public buildings, and on earlier plans, the functions of the various parts of larger industrial premises are also indicated. Content of the plans does vary however, from one town to the next in terms of, for example, the completeness of railway tracks and the coverage of public buildings.

Please note: Due to the partial coverage of Historical Town Plans, it is possible that not all segments within an order will contain mapping. Only the segments that have Town Plan coverage will be generated.

The historical maps shown were reproduced from maps predominantly held at the scale adopted for England, Wales and Scotland in the 1840's. In 1854 the 1:2,500 scale was adopted for mapping urban areas; these maps were used to update the 1:10,560 maps. The published date given therefore is often some years later than the surveyed date. Before 1936, all Ordnance Survey maps were produced on a grid of 100 square miles, with the county or group of counties divided into 10 significant rectangles in each area. In the late 1940's, a Provisional Edition was produced which updated the 1:10,560 mapping from a number of sources. The maps appear unfinished - with all military camps and other strategic sites removed. These maps were initially overprinted with the National Grid. In 1970, the first 1:10,000 maps were produced using the Transverse Mercator Projection. The revision process continued until recently, with new editions appearing every 10 years or so for urban areas.

Before 1930, all OS maps were produced on a cylindrical projection, which caused significant distortion in the county or group of counties, giving rise to significant inaccuracies in outline areas. In the late 1940's, a Provisional Edition was produced which updated the 1:10,560 mapping from a number of sources.
