Comment Reasons:

Comment: I object as there would be no point having 2 arenas in Manchester - the Etihad is already used as a concert venue and works very well so why not just leave it at that. The existing arena is far easier for most people to get to, another one would just add to the misery of commuters trying to get home when concerts or shows are staged - not everyone can work from home and not everyone works 9 -5 either. I finish work at 10pm and it's bad enough trying to get home when Man City have been playing, so for people to be getting home from gigs etc will just be another headache which many of us don't need.
