Comment Reasons:

Comment: As someone who doesn't live in Manchester, it would be a really bad decision to build an arena in Eastlands. Manchester arena is the perfect location for those who travel to the city for concerts as they are able to use public transport to get there. I always travel via train and eat at the restaurants near the arena before the shows. If it moved then I would think twice about going to a concert as it would be difficult to get to and from that area
