Comment Reasons:

Comment: As a regular visitor to the Manchester arena and the Etihad stadium I do not see the need for a new concert venue, as a Manchester city supporter I know how busy and sometimes dangerous the roads can get on match days around the campus, if another venue was built this would add to the problem.

As a stadium Manchester City are trying to uphold a sustainable and environmentally friendly area and more cars, people and buildings won't help that.

The Manchester arena has been at the heart of the Manchester community for 25 years and I believe this a place that is more than capable to hold various concerts of all genres, in these troubling times especially with terrorism the last thing we need is another venue that has to be watched and policed to keep people safe and secure, the police have enough to deal with at the football games. Therefore I'm against another venue being opened at the Etihad site
