Comment Reasons:

Comment: I fully support turning the Ryebank Fields site into a community woodland.

Protecting and enhancing this green space would benefit local people, wildlife, and the environment.

- It would give the community a safe, peaceful place to walk, play, and connect with nature.
- It would help biodiversity by providing habitat for birds, pollinators, and other species.
- It would improve air quality, support wellbeing, and offer opportunities for outdoor learning and volunteering.
- It would help tackle climate change by storing carbon and keeping the land green and permeable.

Ryebank Fields is a precious piece of green space in an urban area. Once it's built on, it's gone forever. Turning it into community woodland would leave a lasting legacy for future generations.
