Comment Reasons:
Comment:This development is completely out of scale with the rest of Chorlton. I know Graeme House is quite high, but that is just one building. Chorlton is a village that has become part of the city, and it is on a human scale. The proposed development is much more like you would expect in the city centre, not in a suburb known for semis and terraced houses. I believe the height of buildings should be reduced, more shops and green space should be provided and homes for humans should be built.
