

Justification for the Two Back Doors

Location: Basement 19-21 George Street Manchester M1 4HE

The two back doors are a vital part of the design for the commercial retail mart. They serve multiple important functions that ensure the business runs smoothly, securely, and efficiently. This document explains the reasons why these doors are necessary for the operation of the mart.

1. Easy Access for Deliveries

The back doors are mainly used for receiving deliveries and supplies. They make it easier to load and unload goods, helping to keep the store stocked and running without delays.

2. Security Features

The doors are designed to be secure. They will be built to withstand possible break-ins and will have shutters for extra protection. Additionally, the area around the main entrance will have good lighting to ensure the safety of both the staff and the building.

3. Staff Entry

These doors also serve as the staff entrance, giving employees access to areas like the staff locker rooms where they can safely store their belongings.

4. Easy Movement Between Floors

The back doors are near stairs that connect different floors of the building. This helps staff move goods easily between levels, making the process of handling and storing items more efficient.

5. Waste Management

The back doors give access to the bin store, making it easier to manage waste and keep the building clean. This separation of waste areas from the rest of the store helps maintain a tidy environment.

6. Convenient Location

The back doors are located close to key areas like the kitchen, fridges, and freezers. This makes it convenient to deliver and store perishable goods, ensuring smooth operations.

In summary, the two back doors are essential for the daily operations of the commercial retail mart. They provide easy access for deliveries, ensure staff can enter safely, and offer security and waste management solutions. Their location is ideal for the efficient movement of goods and staff, all of which contribute to the overall success of the business.