Comment Reasons:

Comment: This cafe is important to the community, it allows creatives to come together, a platform for the relaxing jazz artists who play (which causes little to no outside noise) and generally has made me feel so much more connected to the city. Having done coffee training with the owner I can see this is more than a business venture but a passion project. I also work in hospitality and have yet to see someone treat their staff with such respect as well as customers. When raising prices the owner announced to regulars if they cannot afford this, to have a conversation with him as their presence matters. That is the kind of person who desires to continue his business and is foundational for the community. Please have it in your hearts to approve the planning permission, local spots like this are the air the city breathes!
