Comment Reasons:

Comment: 'Something more productive' is not only a brilliant part of Withington's commercial heart, but it is deeply embedded in the community, providing a space where people gather to work, socialise, and relax.

I have been going to SMP since it opened, and its expansion into doing a few more hours trade across a few evenings is a welcomed addition to what it already offers.

In the increasing absence of independent traders in Manchester City centre and south Manchester, SMP shows what can be achieved with an entrepreneurial mindset and an awareness of local community values. Manchester City council should stop investing in large, often corrupt forms of nightlife (as evidenced by Sacha Lord's recent dethroning), and begin supporting local institutions built for local people.

I wholeheartedly support their application to extend their licensing hours a few hours into a select few evenings, and the not granting of this application would do a damage to an important community asset.

Yours,
