Cleaning of Clay Brickwork −

If there is just a light dusting of salts, we recommend leaving them to weather away naturally. However if there are more stubborn stains, such as mortar staining, then careful use of acid cleaner is OK following the manufacturer's instructions. Keep brushing to a minimum and rinse with low pressure water. On a sandfaced brick harsh abrasion or high-pressure washing may scour the surface and possibly alter the colour and texture of the brick. Try it out on a small, inconspicuous area first.
