I have already written an actual letter but am concerned it may not arrive in time.

I am very concerned about the potential health hazards from the installation of a telecoms mast on the proposed site. Small children live very close and there are other people in the area vulnerable for reasons of age, infirmity. Has it been demonstrated that there is no risk from radiation emitted from these masts?

I am amazed that the proposed site has been mooted. This is a residential area and quite unsuitable for a structure so tall. Its proximity to a house is quite disturbing. I assume there will also be units next to the mast which will cause obstacles. It has been brought to my attention also that we are quite a distance from the ideal site which makes no sense of the proposal. There must be other areas away from residential areas that would be available.
