Local Planning Authority informal advice

It is of note that the discharge of conditions including the documents being provided have been informally discussed and approved as acceptable by Gerry Reilly at LPA on the 14/11/22

"I've had a look at the Maintenance Management Plan, and it does seem to cover all the principal issues. This will need to be submitted as a formal Discharge of Condition app."

Planning Legislation

National Planning Policy Framework

Paragraph 55 & 56 of the National Planning Policy Framework makes clear that planning conditions should be kept to a minimum, and only used where they satisfy the following tests:

1. necessary;
2. relevant to planning;
3. relevant to the development to be permitted;
4. enforceable;
5. precise; and
6. reasonable in all other respects.

These are referred to as the 6 tests, and each of them need to be satisfied for each condition which an authority intends to apply.

Town and Country Planning Act 1990

Section 74A, Deemed discharge of planning conditions, of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 outlines the relevant planning legislation in relation to Discharge of Conditions including applicant and local planning authority responsibility.

The Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2015

Article 27 & 28, Applications made under a planning condition & Deemed discharge, of The Town and Country Planning (Development Management Procedure) (England) Order 2015 outlines the relevant procedure and responsibilities of both applicant and local planning authority in relation to processing Discharge of Condition applications.

Article 29, Deemed discharge notice, outlines the process of giving a Deemed discharge notice once the following has elapsed,

- At least 6 weeks beginning with the day immediately following that on which the application is received by the local planning authority; or
- such shorter period as may be agreed in writing between the applicant and the local planning authority for serving a notice.

If the applicant has served a deemed discharge notice and the local planning authority fails to determine the application by the date specified in the notice or such later date as may have been agreed in writing, approval is deemed to have been given, with the consequence that the condition is deemed to be discharged.

We hope that the submission is in order and can be registered at your earliest opportunity. It is noted the local planning authority should respond to requests to discharge conditions without delay and must give notice to the applicant of its decision within a period of 8 weeks, beginning with the day immediately following that on which the application is received, or any longer period agreed in writing between the applicant and local planning authority. If no decision is made to discharge the condition within 12 weeks, the local planning authority must return the fee to the applicant without further delay.

Should you require any further information or have any queries then please do not hesitate to contact me.

Yours sincerely,

Joshua Lee
