Partitions Strategy

Subsequent partitioning of individually tenanted areas by occupants will be subject to the following strategy:

- Design and materiality of partitions will contrast with original historic fabric. Suggested materials include plasterboard and glass
- Partitions will avoid columns and other historic features such as perimeter fireplaces
- Junctions between historic fabric and contemporary interventions will be expressed by the use of a recess detail, such as shadow gaps, to emphasize the contrast between old and new
- Partitions will either not be full height or, where they are required to be full height, be substantially glazed
- Where possible, new partitions will be formed by reusing original historic fabric from existing partitions which need to be relocated, as per drawing 424 Rev A
