Architectural elevation drawing of a house. The drawing shows a main two-story section and a smaller single-story extension on the left. The main section has a gabled roof with a tiled pattern, a chimney on the left side, and a textured wall. It features a central door, a small square window above it, a rectangular window above the door, and a large rectangular window to the right. The single-story extension has a lower tiled roof and a door. Dimensions are indicated: 1500mm for the roof slope of the extension, 700mm for the door width, 3000mm for the width of the extension, and 7610mm for the total width of the main section.
