Legislative Issues

Sections 191 and 192 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 provide for anyone (not just a person with a legal interest in the land) to apply to the local planning authority (LPA) for a lawful development certificate (LDC). A certificate is a statutory document certifying:

1. in the case of an application under section 191, the lawfulness, for planning purposes, of existing operations on, or use of land, or some activity being carried out in breach of a planning condition; or

2. in the case of an application under section 192, the lawfulness of proposed operations on, or use of land.

The onus of proof in regard to (1) is firmly on the applicant and the issue of a certificate will depend on the on factual evidence provided about the history and planning status of the building or other land and the interpretation of any relevant planning law or judicial authority. The relevant test of the evidence in this matter is “the balance of probability” and the applicants own evidence does not need to be corroborated by independent evidence. If the LPA have no evidence to contradict the applicant’s version of events or make them less then probable, there is no good reason to refuse the issue of a certificate.

In regard to (2), this provides that, if the LPA are supplied with information satisfying them that the use or operations described in the application would be lawful, if instituted or begun at the time of the application, they shall issue a certificate to that effect; and, in any other case, they shall refuse the application.

In short, the purpose section 192 is to enable any person who wishes to find out whether any proposed use or operations would be lawful to apply to the LPA for that purpose.

The application needs to describe the proposal with sufficient clarity and precision to enable the LPA to understand (from a written description and plans) exactly what is involved in the proposal; and to submit whatever supporting information or legal submission that are to be relied upon in order to satisfy the LPA that a certificate should be granted for the proposal.

In making their decision on an application under section 192, the LPA ask themselves the hypothetical question - "If this proposed change of use had already occurred, or if this proposed operation had commenced, on the application date, would it have been lawful for planning purposes?" In doing so, the LPA will not only consider whether the proposal would involve "development" requiring an application for planning permission, but whether it would involve a breach of any existing condition or limitation imposed on a grant of planning permission which has been acted upon, and which therefore constrains what can be done on the land. The LPA will not make a proposal fit a scenario; the only question is whether the proposal made by the applicant is lawful at the time of submission.

The Application

This application is pursued under subsection (1) of section 191 which provides for an application to determine whether a specified existing use, operation, or failure to comply with a planning condition or limitation, which has already been carried out on land is lawful for planning purposes.

Class C4 is defined in the Town and Country Planning (Use Classes) Order 1987, as amended, as “Use of a dwellinghouse by not more than six residents as a “house in multiple occupation”.” This latter term is as defined in S.254 of the Housing Act 2004.

In the case of Sui generis' this is a Latin term that, in this context, means ‘in a class of its own’.

Certain uses are specifically defined and excluded from classification by legislation, and therefore become ‘sui generis’.

In cases for 7 bedroom HMOs they are considered to be a sui generis use.

The Planning Practice Guidance points to the need for evidence to be sufficiently precise and unambiguous to justify the grant of a certificate on the balance of probability.

The relevant test, established by the court in Thrasyvoulou v SSE [1984], is the balance of probabilities – whether something is more likely than not.

Assessment of Evidence

Planning history

Planning history for the site shows that have been two previous planning applications at this address.

F10912 – Planning permission was granted on the 19 June 1979 for the erection of a garage.

F11037 – An application for planning permission to allow the erection of a double garage at the rear of the dwellinghouse was withdrawn on the 13 June 1979.

Applicants Evidence

In a case of this type, the onus is on the applicant to substantiate his or her case, on the balance of probability. The applicant needs to demonstrate that the use of property as a 7 bedroom House in Multiple Occupation (HMO) (sui generis) commenced more than ten years prior to the date of the application (i.e. by 3 October 2015) and continued without a significant break for ten years.

The application states that the property has been in continuous use as HMO since 10 October 2010. This is supported by tenancy agreements covering the period from 1st July 2014 to 30th June 2024. These documents show that housed seven occupants.

The application form references two HMO licences issued by the City Council on the 2nd February 2018 and another 13th February 2023. However, these were not provided with the submission.

A floor plan submitting with the application shows that residential accommodation is arranged over three floor levels. The ground floor contains a single bedroom, along with a lounge, kitchen, w.c and a shower room. The first floor contains a further four bedrooms and a bathroom. The top floor contains a further two bedrooms.

Although the applicant has provided tenancy agreements spanning ten years, these do not cover the entire period from 3 October 2015 to 3 October 2025. Specifically, there is no evidence for 2024/25 or 2025/26, nor any explanation for this omission. No alternative information has been provided to demonstrate the property’s use up to the date of the application.

Planning Practice Guidance states that the applicant is responsible for supplying sufficient evidence to support an application. Where a local planning authority has no evidence to contradict the applicant's version of events, and the applicant's evidence is sufficiently precise and unambiguous, a certificate may be granted on the balance of probability.

In this case, the evidence submitted does not provide a sufficient basis to conclude, on the balance of probability, that the property has been in continuous HMO use for the ten-year period from 3 October 2015.

The application is recommended for refusal.

Other Legislative Requirements
Equality Act 2010
Section 149 (Public Sector Equality Duty) of the Equality Act 2010 requires due regard to the need to: Eliminate unlawful discrimination, harassment and victimisation and other conduct prohibited by the Act and; Advance equality of opportunity between persons who share a protected characteristic and persons who do not share it. The Equality Duty does not impose a legal requirement to conduct an Equality Impact Assessment. Compliance with the Equality Duty involves consciously thinking about the aims of the Equality Duty as part of the process of decision-making.

Human Rights Act 1998 considerations
This application needs to be considered against the provisions of the Human Rights Act 1998. Under Article 6, the applicants (and those third parties, including local residents, who have made representations) have a right to a fair hearing and to this end the local planning authority must give full consideration to their comments.

Protocol 1 Article 1, and Article 8 where appropriate, confer(s) a right of respect for a person's home, other land and business assets. In taking account of all material considerations, including Council policy as set out in the Core Strategy and saved polices of the Unitary Development Plan, the Director of Planning, Building Control & Licensing has concluded that some rights conferred by these articles on the applicant(s)/objector(s)/resident(s) and other occupiers and owners of nearby land that might be affected may be interfered with but that that interference is in accordance with the law and justified by being in the public interest and on the basis of the planning merits of the development proposal. She believes that any restriction on these rights posed by the recommendation given is proportionate to the wider benefits of and that such a decision falls within the margin of discretion afforded to the Council under the Town and Country Planning Acts.

Recommendation: Refuse

Condition(s) to be attached to decision for approval OR Reasons for recommendation to refuse

1) The applicant has failed to demonstrate that the use of property as a house in multiple occupation for 7 persons (sui generis) as defined by the Town and Country Planning (Use Classes) Order 1987 (as amended), has continued for a 10-year period up to the date of the application.
